 REGULATIONS

COMMENTS AND RECOMMENDED CHANGES

25X1A

 COMPLIANCE WITH SECURITY REGULATIONS

It seems that this initial regulation in the Security series should be positive and set a broad philosophical tone for all that will follow. Instead, the opening regulation, 25X1A  deals with negative sanctions, i.e., the security violations ^{DISCIPLINARY PENALTIES, ETC.} ~~program and all that entails~~. From a public relations and employee relations standpoint, this text, while important for inclusion somewhere in the series, seems a poor choice for the lead-off item.

 DEFINITION - It would seem appropriate to include here a definition of a security violation. In the past, ~~violations~~ which have been charged appear to be largely in the category of open safes and exposed classified material.

RESPONSIBILITIES - This should be rewritten to be more in consonance with the Director of Security's overall responsibility to the Agency rather than ~~dealing~~ ^{ADDRESSING}, as it does, on two basic security problems, e.g., security violations and neglect. It might be productive to include in this section that the Director of Security is responsible for promulgating overall security policy for the Agency and assisting Responsible

Agency Authorities in establishing security rules and procedures unique to their areas. Everything in this section dealing with security violations should be extracted and reinserted later in the regulations where the subject matter would flow more evenly.

PENALTIES FOR NONCOMPLIANCE OR VIOLATION - The penalty system may warrant change. As it now stands, everyone is charged the same on violations regardless of the classification level of the material left exposed. An individual who leaves out a Confidential document of doubtful intrinsic sensitivity receives the same penalty as an individual who leaves out a Top Secret and sensitive document. The disparity in the weight of the penalty may need correcting.

~~In subparagraphs (2) and (3), where substitute and lesser penalties are discussed some confusion exists since in some cases a substitute penalty may, in reality, be a lesser penalty. Looking at this in depth, inequities can exist, e.g., a person in Headquarters may receive loss of pay and possible suspension while an individual in the field may receive a reprimand or extra~~

SECURITY OFFICERS

25X1A The entire [REDACTED] section deals with the matter of Security Officers, career and non-career types, assigned to 25X1A or designated from within elements of the Agency. In general, the spirit of [REDACTED] is being followed but many of the 25X1A specifics are not being honored, ~~and possibly should not be in some instances, e.g., [REDACTED]~~ It appears 25X1A that time and experience have demonstrated that the entire [REDACTED] section needs rewriting. The ultimate rewritten version will depend heavily upon the Director of Security's philosophy and views. It is suggested that representatives of the DD/P&M and Physical Security Division meet to discuss 25X1A this section with a view to total updating.

FOREIGN TRAVEL BY CONTRACTORS AND CONTRACTOR PERSONNEL

25X1A This paragraph was discussed with Chief, Security Staff, Office of Logistics, who advised that he is preparing comments on this paragraph.

STORAGE OF CLASSIFIED AND CONTROLLED MATERIAL

MINIMUM STORAGE REQUIREMENTS - The Requirement should be changed to read "Approved vault, secure area, special purpose vault in Headquarters Building only, or safe."

The former Director of Security, Mr. Howard J. Osborn, approved open shelf storage of all classifications of material including codeword in special purpose vaults per his authorization on 13 September 1971.

MINIMUM STORAGE REQUIREMENTS - Add after secure area..."special purpose vaults in Headquarters Building only"...

UNUSUAL STORAGE REQUIREMENTS - This should be changed to read: "Depending on its classification and sensitivity, bulky classified material that cannot be stored in safes ~~is to~~ ^{MAY} be stored in a vault, secure area or special purpose vault in Headquarters Building only. If the bulk, volume, or handling of nonregistered, unclassified controlled matter presents a storage problem, the Director of Security should be consulted for guidance.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ - DELIVERY AND TRANSFER OF SAFEKEEPING

EQUIPMENT - The Security Services Section of the Headquarters Security Branch reports that they are being notified approximately 80% of the time on safekeeping equipment being returned to ~~the warehouse~~^{STOCK}. The other 20% of the time the custodian calls the Logistics Officer who assumes responsibility for the safe. It is suggested that subparagraph (1) be retained as it is now written; however, suggest that a reminder be given to all Logistics Officers that a release must be obtained from the Physical Security Division on any safekeeping equipment being returned to supply.

The provision in subparagraph (2) which requires inspection is appropriate and adequately stated. The requirement for a written certification of the successful completion of an inspection is quite good in theory but difficult to apply in practice. It is suggested that the last sentence of this subparagraph be deleted.

--- This involves the issuance of firearms for the Emergency Security Force. It should be deleted entirely. If not, then reconsideration should be given to the whole problem of firearms and training for the emergency force. All members of this force are not qualified and authorized to carry firearms, nor is it deemed necessary. Firearms are rarely necessary

This concerns authority and identification of the Emergency Security Force Officers. It refers specifically to the means of identifying a member of the Emergency Security
